

Tiered Journals and Publishers in Political Science/International Studies and Asian Studies

The following lists have been developed by the Australian Political Science Association and the Asian Studies Association of Australia. They have been chosen because of the nature of their compilation (as part of a national-level benchmarking exercise in Australia) and because they cover most journals and publishers that are present in an area studies discipline such as Asian and International Studies. However, in choosing to adopt these lists as guides, AIS recognises that they may be incomplete for its needs in terms of the journals and publishers covered. For staff members whose research is guided by disciplines of sociology, anthropology, history, and cultural studies, or whose outputs are strongly interdisciplinary in nature and may not appear in the Political Science or Asian Studies rankings that have been selected, DPAC will conduct assessments based on impact factors determined through alternate benchmarking mechanisms, such as European Reference Index for the Humanities (ERIH), available at <http://www.esf.org/research-areas/humanities/erih-european-reference-index-for-the-humanities/erih-foreword.html>.

*As noted in the AIS PBPR document, there is a geographical bias in publishing houses, where North American academics tend to favour university presses and UK academics favour commercial presses.
