(Hong Kong) OKX Graduate Hire 2022/23 - Software Engineer

About OKX
OKX is a diverse crypto ecosystem with Exchange, Web3.0.OKXChain We are serving more than 20 million customers in over 180 regions. Built on world's most powerful exchange, OKX has a full capability of trading crypto, managing DeFi portfolio, and exploring dApps that investors and professional traders got to switch seamlessly in their Web3 journey to acquire the most reliable and scalable services.

Our Hong Kong office is a Product and Engineering hub and we are in the progress of expanding our teams in Hong Kong for the continuous growth of our business. We build and maintain core trading platform with millions of daily active users. Design, Product and other Engineering teams work cross-functionally to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations to push the boundaries of Web3.0 innovation and create the ultimate utility.

About OKX Graduate Program (Supernova)
Supernova Program is a 3-year career accelerator program that aims to fast-track young, high performing graduates into technical experts and future leaders in the Product & Engineering team.

FrontEnd/Backend
As a graduate engineer, you will build and maintain the core OKX platform with millions of daily active users. You will work cross-functionally with design, product, and other engineering teams to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations. This is an opportunity to learn the full life cycle of crypto services including pro/retail trading, asset management, account and wallet services.

Responsibilities:

- Be part of a global software team, and develop new features across the different functionality of our app

- Strive for performance optimization and maximize customer satisfaction

- Stay on top of industry trends, and evaluate new solutions to address our unique and fast-growing business needs

- Work closely with design and product teams, and turn design ideas into quality features that scale to millions of users

- Collaborate with global development teams, and deliver customized solutions targeting international users while maintaining consistency with the overall architecture

- Maintain high-quality technical documentation and improve efficiency in cross-office/time zone cooperation

Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Software Engineering, or related technical discipline

- Possess relevant tech stack skillset for the respective software roles (HTML,CSS,JS for Frontend, Java & database language knowledge for backend)

- Passionate about Web3, Crypto and Blockchain industry

- Good team communication and collaboration skills

- Analytical, problem-solving mindset and a self-starter

- Curious to learn and embodies a growth mindset

- Flexible and comfortable to navigate ambiguity

- A pro-active team player that thrives on winning as a team

- An excellent communicator with a global mindset

Apply here: https://grnh.se/96f728913us

(Hong Kong) OKX Graduate Hire 2022/23 - Product Manager

About OKX
OKX is a diverse crypto ecosystem with Exchange, Web3.0.OKXChain We are serving more than 20 million customers in over 180 regions. Built on world's most powerful exchange, OKX has a full capability of trading crypto, managing DeFi portfolio, and exploring dApps that investors and professional traders got to switch seamlessly in their Web3 journey to acquire the most reliable and scalable services.

Our Hong Kong office is a Product and Engineering hub and we are in the progress of expanding our teams in Hong Kong for the continuous growth of our business. We build and maintain core trading platform with millions of daily active users. Design, Product and other Engineering teams work cross-functionally to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations to push the boundaries of Web3.0 innovation and create the ultimate utility.

About OKX Graduate Program (Supernova)
Supernova Program is a 3-year career accelerator program that aims to fast-track young, high performing graduates into technical experts and future leaders in the Product & Engineering team.
We firmly believe in the young power of new era. Join us to achieve your own narrative around crypto.

About the team:
As a graduate Product Manager, you will build and maintain the core OKX app with millions of daily active users. You will work cross-functionally with design, product, and other engineering teams to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations. This is an opportunity to learn the full life cycle of crypto mobile applications including pro/retail trading, asset management, and wallet.

Responsibilities:

- Collect user suggestions and develop solutions. Proactively reactive to market trends and new projects with a passion for Web3.0. Execute research on users' interests and behavior across the world spontaneously and make direct and achievable suggestions derived from your findings;
- Design the crypto asset trading products of all major financial products, including the back-end service, user experience and new business mode, participating in the whole life cycle of products from establishment to launch;
- Design financial product functions, output prototypes and PRDs from start to launch for our customers;
- Provide the short and medium-term product iteration plan and RoadMap based on the life cycle characteristics of the product, competition environment and resource structure.
- Discover new customer demands and optimize user experience and interaction design;
- Improve product competitiveness and user experience through data analysis, competitors research and other means;
- Cooperate with marketing, operations, business development teams and other departments to grow our trading volume;

Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree with product manager internship experience, preferably from a well-known Internet, blockchain or financial company;
- A strong interest in blockchain and the financial industry;
- Possess rigorous logical thinking, excellent teamwork awareness and communication skills, and be able to organize and coordinate resources to solve problems and achieve goals between different departments;

- Interested in discovering user demands through data analysis
- Ability to think logically, work in a team and communicate effectively. Be able to organize and coordinate resources to solve problems and achieve goals in collaboration with different departments;
- Investment experience in a certain digital currency direction;
- Be proactive, enthusiastic, responsible to our customers and your team.

Apply here: https://grnh.se/43917e2f3us

(Hong Kong) OKX Graduate Hire 2022/23 - Content/Product Designer

About OKX
OKX is a leading crypto trading platform, and a Web3 ecosystem. Trusted by more than 20 million global customers in over 180 international markets, OKX is known for being the fastest and most reliable crypto trading app for investors and professional traders globally. Our Hong Kong office is a Product and Engineering hub and we are in the progress of expanding our teams in Hong Kong for the continuous growth of our business. We build and maintain core trading platform with millions of daily active users. Design, Product and other Engineering teams work cross-functionally to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations.

About OKX Graduate Program (Supernova)
Supernova Program is a 3-year career accelerator program that aims to fast-track young, high performing graduates into technical experts and future leaders in the Product & Engineering team.

About the team:
As a graduate Content/Product Designer, you will build and maintain the core OKX app with millions of daily active users. You will work cross-functionally with product management, and other engineering teams to identify customer needs, and ship high-quality new features through fast iterations. This is an opportunity to learn the full life cycle of crypto mobile applications including pro/retail trading, asset management, and wallet.

1) Content Designer:
Responsibilities:

- Creates user-centric copy for web and mobile applications. This includes partnering with product designers and information architects to create information flows and terminology within complex workflows from concept, wireframes, prototypes, to production.
- Collaborates with the product designers to create a cohesive cross-product experience including contributing to the product's voice and tone style guide.
- Works with product team to identify opportunities where research can inspire, optimize, or evaluate the UI content; in the absence of research, use data and have an intuition for what will work well.

Requirements:

- Bachelor/ Master's degree in English, Journalism, Translation or any relevant discipline

- Ability to write in professional English
- Basic knowledge of UX and content development and strategy
- Proven ability to adhere to specific conversational "tones" and to write about otherwise-serious topics in a fun, creative, and engaging way
- Fluent in English, Mandarin is a plus
- Good communication, teamwork and eager to learn
- Candidates MUST submit a portfolio to showcase UI/UX work

2) Product Designer:
Responsibilities:

- Understand user needs and business goals when generating new ideas and concepts
- Collaborate with product management and engineering to implement innovative solutions
- Create wireframes, user journeys and user flows, to communicate interaction and design ideas effectively
- Establish and promote design guidelines, best practices and standards in design system

Requirements:

- Bachelor/ Master's degree in user experience design, interaction design or other design disciplines focusing on UI/UX design
- Basic knowledge of UX and design principles, and understand the user habits and aesthetic attitudes of international customers
- Familiar with design and prototyping tools, such as Figma and Sketch
- Fluent in English, Mandarin is a plus
- Good communication, teamwork and eager to learn
- Candidates MUST submit a portfolio to showcase UI/UX work

Apply here: https://grnh.se/e57377c63us