Part II Course Details

1. Abstract

(A 150-word description about the course)

The course aims to provide students with the language skills they will need for English for the Medium of Instruction (EMI). The course aims to guide students towards fluent, correct, and intelligible speech while showing them functions of English needed for teaching in various academic settings (e.g., classrooms, laboratories, and consultation hours) and strategies for continual maintenance of gains made in their English proficiency.

2. Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

(CILOs state what the student is expected to be able to do at the end of the course according to a given standard of performance.)

Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able to

No.	CILOs [#]	Weighting* (if applicable)	Discovery-enriched curriculum related learning outcomes (please tick where appropriate)

5. Assessment Rubrics

(Grading of student achievements is based on student performance in assessment tasks/activities with the following rubrics.)

Grading pattern: Pass (P) and Fail (F). Grading is based on student performance in the Oral Proficiency and EMI Teaching Demonstration.

	Fluency	Grammatical & lexical accuracy	Pronunciation and intelligibility)	Organization & delivery	Language Functions
Pass	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - generally fluent use of English (but may be strained, tentative or hesitant at times) - speech tends to be produced in short paragraphs - evident use of literal translations and/or self-corrections - few or no breakdowns 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - adequate (or better) control of grammatical structures and/or verb tenses (though may be inaccurate and/or weak at times) - some inaccuracies in vocabulary choices and/or word forms - some errors (or better) in production - register is mostly appropriate 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - adequate (or better) pronunciation though it may contain inaccuracies - adequate (or better) use of word stress - adequate (or better) use of sentence stress and rhythm - adequate (or better) use of intonation - adequately intelligible (or better) utterances; does not generally put a strain on the listener 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - adequate (or better) organisation of content - adequate (or better) chunking of information - adequate (or better) eye contact, body language, posture, hand gestures, and voice volume - adequate (or better) use of teaching strategies (e.g., definition and classification, compare and contrast, process, etc.) (optional) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - adequate (or better) use of different language functions (e.g., language for explanation, signposting etc.) - use of higher-level functions may cause linguistic production to drop somewhat in amount and quality - produces adequate and/or appropriate information when answering different types of questions
Fail	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - generally influent or limited use of English with frequent tentative and extended hesitations, pauses and/or self-corrections - speech tends to be produced in short, disconnected utterances; demonstrates difficulty expressing and linking ideas - generates response-oriented sentence-length utterances which may be reactive in nature - frequent breakdowns 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - frequently inaccurate control of grammatical structures and/or verb tenses - frequent inaccuracies in vocabulary choices and/or word forms - consistent errors in production - register is mostly inappropriate 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - frequently inaccurate pronunciation - frequently inaccurate, little, or no use of word stress - frequently inaccurate, little, or no use of sentence stress and rhythm - frequently inappropriate, little, or no use of intonation - frequently unclear utterances resulting in limited intelligibility; frequently puts a strain/heavy strain on the listener 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - inadequate organisation of content - inadequate chunking of information - inadequate eye contact, body language, posture, hand gestures, and voice volume - inadequate or little use of teaching strategies (e.g., definition and classification, compare and contrast, process, etc.) (optional) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - inadequate or very limited use of language functions (e.g., classification, explanation, signposting etc.) - use of higher-level functions may cause linguistic production to severely drop in amount and quality; - produces very simple or no information when answering different types of questions
