Part II Course Details

1. Abstract

GE2402 English for Business Communication provides guidance on how global workplaces in Asia operate when using English as a lingua franca. It introduces students to various business spoken and written genres that are now commonly produced in such workplaces enabled by technology in business transactions. The genres include emails, meetings, pitches, proposals, presentations, job advertisements, resumes, cover letters, interviews, webpage texts, webchat exchanges and text messages. They are delivered through in-class activities that provide a series of authentic and memorable workplace scenarios based in an Asian-based company working globally and with a UK telecommunications company. The aim is to prepare students to become professional communicators as they do face-to-face and virtual business together in English. The assessments include writing a short proposal, giving a persuasive pitch with creative ideas, negotiating ideas and making decisions in a business meeting, and writing an email.

2. Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

(CILOs state what the student is expected to be able to do at the end of the course according to a given standard of performance.)

1: Readings and 'The story so far'.	Students complete the background readings with the help of a dictionary specially compiled for the readings. These readings set the scene and support the topics and Activities 2 and 3.	\checkmark	V			\checkmark		Throughout the course
2: Input: Understanding and modelling spoken and written genres.	In these teacher-led tasks, the authentic and project-related reading and listening texts provide explicit input on understanding how these genres are organised together with their specific linguistic features. This is done by explicitly modelling and deconstructing these genres and draws on the language learning pedagogy described. This knowledge about how genres work lays the foundation for students to produce their own speaking and writing texts in Activity 3.	\checkmark	~	\checkmark	\checkmark	\checkmark		Throughout the course
3: Output: Spoken and written skills development tasks.	In these student-led tasks, students produce a series of business speeches and texts as part of the simulated case study requirements. They are scaffolded in their construction of these speeches and texts by their teachers who provide constant feedback and support. Students are encouraged to work collaboratively in groups on these output tasks and are encouraged to provide peer feedback and assessment.	V	\checkmark	\checkmark	V		V	Throughout the course
4: Self- evaluation	The task remains the same in Activity 4 where students are encouraged to reflect on their own knowledge and skills devel- opment unit by unit.	V	\checkmark					Throughout the course

3. Teaching and Learning Activities (TLAs)

(TLAs designed to facilitate students' achievement of the CILOs.)

4. Assessment Tasks/Activities (ATs) (ATs are designed to assess how well the students achieve the CILOs.)

GE course leaders should cover the mandatory PILOs for the GE area (Area 1: Arts and Humanities; Area 2: Study of Societies, Social and Business Organisations; Area 3: Science and Technology) for which they have classified their course; for quality assurance purposes, they are advised to carefully consider if it is beneficial to claim any coverage of additional PILOs. General advice would be to restrict PILOs to only the essential ones. (Please refer to the curricular mapping of GE programme: http://www.cityu.edu.hk/edge/ge/faculty/curricular mapping.htm.)

B. Please select an assessment task for collecting evidence of student achievement for quality assurance purposes. Please retain at least one sample of student achievement across a period of three years.
