Part II Course Details

Abstract

This course aims to introduce students to social changes and challenges for governance in the contemporary world via a number of core themes that will be addressed through lectures/discussion and related movies or documentary screenings. Each theme will bring together a designated film or a number of shorter documentaries and key concepts, context, and debates related to the film. The themes to be covered are as follows: 1) family changes; 2) aging society; 3) technology and dystopia; 4) the political economy of food; 5) rapid environmental change; 6) the global illicit economy and the wildlife trade; 7) Hong Kong and the circular economy.

Social Change and Governance Challenges: A Critical Appreciation Through Film is an interdisciplinary course drawing on anthropology, history, political science, public policy and sociology. It adopts a pedagogical strategy that emphasizes exploration and discovery through various modes of learning and critical inquiry, and in particular via reading 'film languages' of both documentaries and feature films. The course also serves to demonstrate the value and relevance of social scientific and humanistic study and research in understanding Asia, and the world more broadly.

Through their work in this course, students will be better placed to conceptualize local, regional and global governance challenges and to think through the potential and limits of social action. The selected issues represent key issues facing societies today, especially demographic change, worsening natural ecosystems, and fears of technological overreach. Students will critically examine multiple levels of analysis, from individuals and families to public and private actors to larger social forces. The focus is continuity and change in the region, while also situating developments in both a Hong Kong and a global context.

Notionally, the film screenings are listed below:

- 1) family changes: The Farewell
- 2) aging society: The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel
- 3) technology and dystopia: Ghost in the Shell
- 4) the political economy of food: Okja
- 5) rapid environmental change: The Last Glaciers
- 6) the global illicit economy and the wildlife trade: The Last Animals
- 7) Hong Kong and the circular economy: reFashioned

Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

CILOs		Weighting (if app.)	DEC-A1	DEC-A2	DEC-A3
1	Demonstrate an awareness of the key social, historical, political, cultural, and ecological features of contemporary societies, and locate these features within the broader global context.	30	x	x
2	Recognise major social, political, economic, cultural, and environmental issues facing contemporary societies.	20	x	x
3	Examine the inter-connectedness among societies in the region and with the wider world.	20	x	x
4	Evaluate current and prospective challenges and opportunities facing different cultures and ecosystems in the world.	20	x	x	x
5	Develop critical thinking skills applicable in other academic fields as well.	10		x	x

A1: Attitude

Develop an attitude of discovery/innovation/creativity, as demonstrated by students possessing a strong sense of curiosity, asking questions actively, challenging assumptions or engaging in inquiry together with teachers.

A2: Ability

Develop the ability/skill needed to discover/innovate/create, as demonstrated by students possessing critical thinking skills to assess ideas, acquiring research skills, synthesizing knowledge across disciplines or applying academic knowledge to self-life problems.

A3: Accomplishments

Demonstrate accomplishment of discovery/innovation/creativity through producing /constructing creative works/new artefacts, effective solutions to real-life problems or new processes.

Teaching and Learning Activities (TLAs)

	TLAs	Brief Description	CILO No.	Hours/week (if applicable)
1	Lectures	Theories and approaches to films will be introduced in lectures to help students contextualise core issues in Asia and Asia' s position in the world.	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
2	Film screenings and discussion sessions	Films relating to core thematic lectures will be screened in class and discussion sessions will be held at the conclusion of each screening for students to raise questions about the film and share their thoughts.	1, 2, 3, 4, 5

3	Discussant	Each student is responsible for serving as a discussant twice. Discussants will have carried out advance research to go deeper into the topic and they will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - identify key points and questions raised by classmates on Canvas Discussions (see “Five Points Before Select Classes” below) - present their position on some of the key issues - think of critical cases that shed light on the topic - think about provocative/ penetrating questions that will challenge classmates and/or any guests and generate discussion - be prepared to answer questions from classmates - be ready to take on a leadership role in smaller groups, when appropriate 	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
4	Q&A With Guests	Experts, including the film-makers themselves, will be invited to engage in a Q&A to critically examine the subject. Particular attention will be paid to how the subject is relevant to the lives of students, whether social change is possible, and which public and private actors are central to this governance challenge.	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
5	Readings	Carefully selected readings will push students to think through the issue at hand and generate points that they want to discuss in class and pursue additional research in their individual assignments	1, 2, 3, 4, 5

	ATs	CILO No.	Weighting (%)	Remarks
1	Film Critique	1, 2, 3, 4, 5	35	Students will be required to write a film review to show their understanding of the films and lectures. The paper should employ research and critical analysis.
2	Research paper	1, 2, 3, 4, 5	40	Students will write a research paper of 2,000 words developing an argument related to one of the 7 themes in the course.
3	Class Participation and Discussion	1, 2, 3, 4, 5	15	Students are expected to participate actively in all class activities. The performance of students as discussants in two weeks factors into this assessment item.
4	Five Points Before Select Classes	1, 2, 3, 4, 5	10	Before two of the classes, students need to post five bullet points on Canvas Discussions. These points will be due 2 days before the class. After looking at the readings and thinking about the topic, students would draft their bullet points. Two of the five points should be questions being raised for discussion. The three other points could be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - examples that are relevant to the theory/issue - something about the relevance to Hong Kong or other parts of Asia - points that students feel are particular important - weaknesses that students see with the article/film - links to other weeks in the course

Assessment Rubrics (AR)

Assessment Task

1. Film critique

Criterion

Critically analyse a film, its themes and how does it relate to one of the five thematic modules, its strengths & weaknesses. Need good organization & English writing.

Excellent (A+, A, A-)

Strong evidence of original thinking; good organization, capacity to analyse and synthesize; superior grasp of subject matter; evidence of extensive knowledge base.

Good (B+, B, B-)

Evidence of grasp of subject, some evidence of critical capacity and analytical skills; reasonable understanding of issues; evidence of familiarity with literature and the film.

Fair (C+, C, C-)

Some evidence of understanding of the subject; relevant information is included.

Marginal (D)

Minimum familiarity with the subject matter which enables the student to progress without repeating the course.

Failure (F)

Little evidence of familiarity with the subject matter; weakness in critical and analytic skills; limited, or irrelevant use of literature and/or film.

Assessment Task

2. Research paper

Criterion

Each student will write a 2000-word research paper that shows critical thinking about the concept of “Asia in the world.” The paper should exhibit a firm grasp of the general context of Asia and of one of the individual modules. Students will choose from a variety of topics. The paper should demonstrate good use of academic style and draw on lectures, readings, and films

Excellent (A+, A, A-)

Strong evidence of a firm grasp of new materials. Writes well. Shows full understanding of concepts and contents; all relevant information is included; purpose of paper is clear and expressed critically. Student applies proper academic style.

Good (B+, B, B-)

Good evidence of a grasp of new materials. Writes well, with minor mistakes. Shows good understanding of concepts and contents; most relevant information is included; purpose of paper is clear and mostly expressed critically. Student applies proper academic style with some shortcomings

Fair (C+, C, C-)

Some evidence of a grasp of new materials. Writes well, though not fluent. Shows limited understanding of concepts and contents; limited relevant information is included; purpose of paper is somewhat unclear and only marginally expressed critically. Academic style is not used properly.

Marginal (D)

Little evidence of a grasp of new materials. Writes with major shortcomings. Shows partial understanding of concepts and contents; does not include most of the relevant information; purpose of paper is unclear and marginally expressed critically. Student shows poor academic style.

Failure (F)

No evidence of a grasp of new materials. Writes unacceptably. Shows no understanding of concepts and contents; does not include relevant information; purpose of paper is unclear and not expressed critically. There is no attempt at proper academic style. Missing assignments

Assessment Task

3. Five Points Before Select Classes

Criterion

This assessment is a test of students' ability to: identify important as well as underexplored themes; draw connections across the course modules; link the themes to their own lives and localities; and raise questions that the discussants and the instructor should address for all students.

Excellent (A+, A, A-)

Original and thought-provoking and the discussants and instructor directly respond to these points in class

Good (B+, B, B-)

Well-thought through and some of the points raised may be discussed in class

Fair (C+, C, C-)

Not particularly original or thoughtful material and little or no engagement from the instructor or students

Marginal (D)

Student did not follow guidelines and/or submitted sub-standard work

Failure (F)

No evidence of any thought put into the five points; no submission; plagiarism

Assessment Task

4. Class participation and discussion

Criterion

Students are expected to participate actively in all class activities, including serving as a discussant.

Excellent (A+, A, A-)

Very active participation in all classroom activities.

Good (B+, B, B-)

Active participation in classroom activities.

Fair (C+, C, C-)

Satisfactory participation in classroom activities.

Marginal (D)

Rarely participate in classroom activities.

Failure (F)

Nil participation in classroom activities.
